

Dr San Bilal is the executive director of ECDPM, a think-and-do tank (NL, BE), based in Brussels. His current activities focus on geostrategic international relations; development, climate and trade finance, promotion and policies; sustainable investment; economic diplomacy, security and statecraft; EU external partnerships, external financial tools, Global Gateway and Ukraine reconstruction; economic resilience and transformation dynamics in emerging markets and developing countries (notably in Africa), trade and development, sustainable value chains, private sector and green industrialisation dynamics.

San holds a PhD in international economics from the University of Birmingham (UK), a master's degree from the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies in Geneva, and a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Geneva (CH). Before joining ECDPM, he worked at ODI, the European Institute of Public Administration and the University of Geneva's economics department.

San is also a Board member of the European Think Tank Group (ETTg), a Steering Committee Member of the Ukàmà Africa-Europe platform for sustainable development, and an active member of the OECD Private Finance for Sustainable Development (PF4SD) and the Finance in Common System (FICS) communities.

San's LinkedIn, and email: sb@ecdpm.org